Access to current international peer-reviewed research is an essential element in enabling scientists, researchers, policy-makers and medical practitioners in developing countries to find local solutions to local health, environmental, social, economic, and food issues.

To answer this call, this journal is available free or at very low cost within institutions in more than a hundred of the world's poorest countries in partnership with the World Health Organization's HINARI initiative.

Under the NIH Public Access Policy, NIH is asking its funded investigators to voluntarily submit to PubMed Central (PMC) the author's final manuscript of articles resulting from research supported in whole or in part with direct costs from NIH. According to the NIH, this policy applies only to manuscripts accepted for publication on or after May 2, 2005.

If you choose to submit your accepted manuscript to PMC, you will be asked to indicate when that manuscript should be made available to the public. As copyright holder of your article, the APS has the sole right to publish or disseminate it. However, the APS grants you permission to allow public release of your manuscript through PMC 12 months after publication in the print version of an APS journal.

This period of time is consistent with our existing policy to make all content publicly available through HighWire Press 12 months after print publication. NIH will be able to determine when 12 months have elapsed because APS sends NIH electronic feeds of the article metadata upon publication in a journal issue. Therefore, you can submit your accepted manuscript to PMC at the time of acceptance to an APS journal, and will not have to calculate or track time elapsed from publication.

NIH intends to use the PMC database of manuscripts for portfolio management; to create a permanent archive of articles based upon NIH-funded research; and to give the public access to research publications. In announcing this policy, NIH officials underscored that it is voluntary and there will be no sanctions of any kind against authors who do not submit their manuscripts. If you have any questions with respect to the NIH Public Access Policy and the publication of your article in an APS journal, please contact Margaret Reich at mreich@the-aps.org.
CALL FOR NOMINATIONS for the Chair of the Book Advisory Committee

Nominations are invited for the Chair of the Book Advisory Committee, a sub-committee of the Publications Committee, to start a 3-year term, renewable once, on January 1, 2007. The Publications Committee plans to interview candidates in the Fall of 2006.

The Chair of the Book Advisory Committee will be expected to recruit a Committee of four to six members who have an interest in maintaining and strengthening the APS’s book program, including its well-known Handbook Series. All APS books are published jointly with a commercial publisher who bears all production costs and pays royalties under a contractual arrangement with APS.

Duties of the Book Advisory Committee are to:

- Identify, in consultation with the publisher and experts in the field, topics and authors and/or chief editors for books, both print and online.
- Ensure timely production of books.
- Propose topics and authors/editors via committee discussion, solicitation of outside experts, and the copublisher.
- Develop rationale and need for proposed books.
- Nominate potential book editors for appointment by the Publications Committee.
- Approve the outlines and individual authors recommended by the chief editors, who will extend the invitation; and maintain close communication with the editor on the progress of each book.
- Assist the editor in holding authors to deadlines.
- Review unsolicited book proposals sent to the APS.
- Meet annually at the APS Headquarters in Bethesda, the EB meeting, or through conference calls. A representative of the copublisher is invited to attend.
- Maintain close communication with the Director of Publications.
- Present an annual written progress report to the Publications Committee.

Applications should be received before September 15, 2006.

Nominations, accompanied by a curriculum vitae, should be sent to the Chair of the Publications Committee:
